Central Contract Registry

What is the CCR? The Central Contracting Registry (CCR) is a central location where companies can submit their business information. The information is added to a vendor database of government contractors. Although this site was designed for use by the Department of Defense and other federal agencies looking to provide opportunities to small businesses, it is also a wonderful opportunity for other large businesses (such as AAWW) to find small businesses like yours. <http://www.ccr.gov>
